1. According to official plans seen at the Schwerin Railroad Directorate the construction of a junction curve south of Neustadt on the Dosse River is scheduled. It will connect the Berlin-Wittenberge trunk line and the Loewenberg-Neustadt-Rathenow branch line. The latter was formerly the Brandenburgische Staedtebahn or municipal railroad line. The excavation work is already in progress. *

25X1A

Comment. The Brandenburgische Staedtebahn, which was previously privately-owned, was inadequately provided with connections to the state railroad system. This required frequent switching operations. After this line is taken over by the State Railroads it must be provided with better connections to the state railroad system, particularly since it is being converted to a main line.

1 Annex : Construction of a junction curve near Neustadt.
